GrainCorp response to COVID-19

GrainCorp is closely monitoring the risks and spread of COVID-19, including information published by the World Health Organisation, Federal and State Governments and public health authorities.

Our priority is the health, safety and wellbeing of our people and our communities. We are also committed to fulfilling our role in vital food and agricultural supply chains by continuing to deliver for our growers and other customers.

Operations and Supply Chain

On 25 March 2020, Australia's Federal Agriculture Minister David Littleproud announced that Australia's food production and supply chain was an essential service and would not be affected by COVID-19 shutdowns. A similar announcement has also been released in New Zealand.

GrainCorp is working diligently to ensure all our supply chains and manufacturing processes are maintained, so our people can continue to provide the best possible levels of service to our growers and other customers.

To date, there has been minimal disruption to our grain and oilseed storage, handling, trading and processing operations. We will continue to provide regular updates as the situation evolves.

Safe Working Environment

Below are details of the measures we have in place to ensure a healthy and safe working environment in order to minimise the risk of infection and maintain business continuity:

- Segregated team-based approach at operational sites.
- Office-based roles working from home where possible.
- Mental health / resilience programs and support mechanisms for employees.
- Travel bans and restrictions, including between GrainCorp sites/offices.
- Screening requirements for visitors to sites/offices, including contractors, suppliers and delivery drivers.
- Increased cleaning and sanitisation at all sites/offices.
